February is the time of year when we celebrate the heritage of African Americans and their role in United States History. Carter G. Woodson, historian, was a leading advocate for the creation of a public celebration during the early 20th century. Woodson's efforts, and changes brought about by the civil rights movement during the 1960's, led to President Gerald Ford beginning the month-long tradition in 1976.

Our school is rich in diversity, reflecting a range of cultural perspectives that make our community unique. We can always learn about someone or something different from ourselves. It is how life-long learners continue to grow. Join our community during this special month and look for updates during assemblies and in our highlight section.
